

Giants Show Life As Season Wanes

Demaree Holds Phillies to Three Hits and Easily Wins Game.

SMITH, RECRUIT, SHOWS FINE FORM

Larry Doyle Contributes Homer in Fifth and Fletcher Gets a Triple.

By HEYWOOD BROWN.

Sport for sport's sake is the motto of the Giants. Although their interest in the National League race is doing its utmost to finish with heads up. Back in these still waters, where neither victory nor defeat matters much, McGraw's men are displaying some of their best form of the season. At Demaree was a failure through the greater part of the baseball year, but yesterday he pitched one of his best games of the season, and held the hard hitting Phillies to three hits. The Giants won by a score of 4 to 0.

And to-day will see the end of it all. One game has been advanced and a double-header between the Phillies and the Giants at the Polo grounds, this afternoon will mark the end of the National League season.

There is reason for the regulars to play out their string to the end without let down. Not a player on McGraw's team makes a move without realizing that there is in the dugout one man or two or three ready to take his place. The bench is overcrowded now, but there will be room enough next year. And so there is no rest for the regulars, for though the bench is a hard seat and a cold seat, no one would quit it for the leagues where the long grass grows.

Harry Smith, of Savannah, came off the bench yesterday and showed why the fans of the South voted him a medal as the best all-around player in his league. He caught in pleasing fashion and made two hits. It may be remarked that one of these was a bunt, Meyers and McLean are splendid catchers, but a roofer will only scratch his head if he tries to remember the play on which either one of them bunted his way to first. Except for Smith McGraw stuck to the line-up which will face the Yankees in the big city series.

Eppa Rixey, longest of left-handers, was the pitcher of the Phillies for seven innings, and Mattison worked for one. Rixey yielded three runs and Mattison gave up one.

The second inning Arthur Fletcher singled and Fred Snodgrass smashed the ball to left for a double, which sent Fletcher to third base. Stock hit to Martin, who threw to Fletcher, who struck out. In the third inning Snodgrass reached third and Stock stole second. Eppa Rixey was wild and he walked Merkle. Then up stepped Harry Smith, of Savannah, and belted the ball on a line, center field, to center field.

Smith will make more hits before he quits the National League, and some of them will be longer and more important than this one. He will be remembered for his above all others, for it was his first safe hit in the National League. The single scored Snodgrass and Stock.

Larry Doyle lunched the ball to deep left in the fifth inning for a home run. Doyle made a desperate attempt to head him off at the plate with a leap, but got nothing but a spiked elbow for his effort. That made three runs for the Giants and more than still to come. Fletcher made it. In the eighth inning he found Mattison for a triple, and Snodgrass scored him with a sacrifice hit to Maize.

Don't Say Plank to Josh Devore

Josh Devore, pinch hitter of the Braves, who is a veteran of three world's series, yesterday told his team mates some of the vulnerable points of the Athletics as he observed them in 1911. Just as Josh Devore was in full swing Ted Cather interrupted with the remark, "Say, is this old bird, Eddie Plank, really so much of a pitcher?"

The lecture of Devore came to an abrupt end, for the former Giant turned and walked out of the room without saying a word.

"See" said Cather, "what's the matter with him? I didn't say anything, did I?"

"Look in the guidebook for the box score of the game played on October 16 in the 1911 series," advised John Evers. Cather did, and now he knows why Josh was angry, for he read, "Struck out by Plank—Devore (4)."

And to-day will see the end of it all. One game has been advanced and a double-header between the Phillies and the Giants at the Polo grounds, this afternoon will mark the end of the National League season.

There is reason for the regulars to play out their string to the end without let down. Tip Tops Lose Slugging Match

Tom Seaton Driven from Box and Bluejacket Replaces Him.

Buffalo, Oct. 5.—The Brooklyn Tip Tops went down to defeat at the hands of the Buffalo Blues in the opening game of the series here this afternoon by a score of 4 to 3. The game was a slugfest match throughout, and the home team won in the ninth by a spirited use of their bats. Fred Anderson, 7th niner, pitched for Buffalo, won his own game with a single to center which scored Young.

Tom Seaton was knocked out of the box in five innings. In that time three runs were scored on him. Jim Bluejacket, the giant Cherokee, home run, replaced him and for five innings pitched shutout ball. While he was in the box the Tip Tops tied the count, but Bluejacket weakened in the final frame. Brooklyn played a poor defensive game contributing half a dozen errors to the afternoon's sport.
